STATE IS OVER-TAXING OUR RACE-GOING FOLK

By J. W. MARCHBANK

All liberal students of civics are in unison on the proposition that the taxing power should not put too heavy a burden on the payers of the imposed levy. Idealistically over-stepping of the bounds to get revenue for the government is not in any sense just, and practically such action may bring exactly the opposite result:

The tax paying body will be eliminated and no taxes whatever will be collected.

Specially, the racing statute at presents reads:

"The license fee to be paid by licensees (racing associations) shall be four per cent of all money handled in the pari mutuel pools."

That is onerous taxation if ever there was a condition that should be described in that way. Latin scholars will recall the origin of the adjective "onerous;" it is from the noun "onus," a load, and that is just what a four per cent take-out for the state amounts to.

Racing in the state of Florida is prospering under a law providing for a take-out of three per cent for that commonwealth. Why, tell me, should the citizens of California not be as fair as the citizens of the much-publicized southern state? J. E. Widener and Colonel E. R. Bradley, owners of the Hialeah tract, know racing from A to Z and every move they make is toward achieving a sportsmanlike success. Sportsmanship demands a reasonably low take-out for the government.

It is high time the percentage of the pari mutuel pools for the state out here was reduced, to at least three per cent.

Carrying out of the provisions of the present law in a spirit of voraciousness might easily bring about a dire state of affairs for the sport itself. Not so long ago Norris Royden, who follows all developments in breeding and racing with an unjaundiced eye, in reviewing the possibility of mutuels in New York, said the sport will last as long in that state as it is kept out of the hands of greedy tax-eaters. Truer words were never written. Californians, look out.

CAR SERVICE IS UNDER CRITICISM IN COUNCIL MEET

Statements By Railway Men Do Not Seem To Satisfy As To Number of Cars

At the meeting of the city council, Monday evening, two representatives of the Market Street Railway appeared and stated in substance that there was some error in the claim that Daly City residents were receiving inadequate street car service. The claim was made by the railway men that during the rush hours, between 4 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon, approximately thirty cars were routed from the various terminals downtown Daly City bound. They failed to state, however, that not the entire number made the through trip here. Also, the claim was made that, by some peculiar legerdemain, the company arrived at the conclusion that this city was being served by cars running on a three minute headway.

They did not convince the spectators that this fact had been proven by their manipulation of figures.

The council complied with a request that the fire chief be authorized to designate one or two men to parol permises after a fire for one hour after the apparatus had left the scene.

STAGE BENEFIT FOR WIDOWS AND ORPHANS RELIEF

Fire Department Has Plans For Entertainment On Elaborate Scale

The committee of arrangements of the local Fire Department met Thursday evening last at Company No. 3 firehouse. They selected their officers by electing Chief Chesney, chairman; Commissioner A. Gaggero of Station No. 6, secretary, and Comrade Al Green of Station No. 3, treasurer. The chief appointed committes on hall, finance, printing, publicity and program, entertainment and music.

The printing committee has the tickets ready for distribution to the members of the department and if citizens are approached by the members please remember that it is for our widows and orphans fund.

The program committee has the programs ready for advertisers, who will receive plenty of advertising for little money.

The hall committee reported that the final arrangements had been made with the Board of Trustees of the Jefferson High School District for the use of the auditorium on Saturday night, April 27.

WEEKLY BULLETIN

This week Chief A. P. Chesney would like to call the attention of the citizens to the danger of leaving oily rags or papers lying around the basement after working on the family car. It is well known that oil soaked rags rolled up or thrown in a pile in a warm temperature will break out into flame in a very short time.

In speaking of the family car, care should be taken in regard to what you use in cleaning the car. Some of the auto polish in use is highly inflamable. A short time ago we had a fire of this sort; the engine had been washed with gasoline and an electric extension cord which dragged over the soaked floor had a break and this caused a spark to ignite the gasoline, which was all over the place and also some in a bucket.

Would also like you to be sure to put them in a good metal garbage car with tight cover. Both of the above have been responsible for a great many fires in our city.

HETCH HETCHY PIPE LINE JOBS ARE UNDER FIRE

Supervisor Witt Says San Mateo County Workers Getting "Dirty Deal"

At the meeting of the County Board of Supervisors, at Redwood City on Monday of this week, exceptions were registered to the manner of employing workers on the Hetch Hetchy and Mills Field and other projects in this county by the San Mateo County Re-employment Department.

Supervisors Poole and Witt voiced strong protests, the former declaring that this county is fast becoming the "dumping ground for San Francisco."

Supervisor Witt led the fight and demanded an explanation from the re-employment service of the reason that "not a single San Mateo County man has been employed on the Hetch Hetchy pipe line construction job in this county." He said this county had received a "dirty deal" in the matter of all of San Francisco's construction jobs in this county, and alleged that the agreement to employ local men on that portion of these projects lo-

LITTLE THEATER PROGRAM THEME

Union High School P. T. A. Will Present Speaker On Character Training

"Character Education" will be the theme of the program, Tuesday evening next at 8 o'clock in the Little Theater. The responsibility of the home in character training will be presented by Mrs. E. I. Bartlett, chairman of character education for the Seventeenth District. The responsibility of the school will be presented by Mr. Clive M. Daiz, member of the high school faculty and Mr. J. A. Kramer, scout master of Troop No. 148, will speak for the responsibility of the community.

Students of the English department will participate in the program through the medium of the verse speaking choir, directed by Miss Dorothy Staib.

The art students will have an interesting exhibition of the various types of work done in their department in painting, weaving, leather work and modeling.

The library will be open and parents are urged to inspect the books on the parents' book shelf.

Come and get acquainted with your school and the teachers of your children.

When parents come to the high school P. T. A. they learn the aims and objects of modern education. Teachers have a better understanding of the child when they know the parents. The teachers will learn they are teaching individuals, not subjects. This kind of personal contact gives a healthy tone to the school—makes it a living soul, not a machine.

PROGRESS MADE IN BIG HIGHWAY BUILDING

By J. W. MARCHBANK
Pioneer in Frontier Mining Work

Action by the Federal Government to speed up the construction of the Alaska Highway is the precursor of good times ahead for all the vast territory in the north. As I have mentioned a number of times in this column the machinery of government is already in motion for the colonization of fertile sections of Alaska. And that is only a drop in the bucket as to what is coming later on.

An important step in the building of the 2200-mile "via" from the United States through British Columbia and the Yukon district to Fairbanks, Alaska, is obtaining permission from the Canadian authorities for the work to be done in Canadian territory. It has been established beyond any doubt it is up to Uncle Sam to furnish the money for the construction of the road.

Naturally enough, it was a lawmaker from the West, fully cognizant of conditions, that introduced a bill in the Senate authorizing President Roosevelt to negotiate with our neighbor to the north in regard to an agreement for the highway. The Senate, sensing the desirability of the improvement, lost no time in passing the bill of Senator McNary of Oregon, the solon I referred to.

There may be some questions as to the road already in existence from Vancouver to Hazelton, British Columbia, being of exactly the character we want in the international highway but it is at least a beginning. The cost of that link will be less, however than in the entirely new links.

Some of the lawmakers are of the opinion the financing can be a joint affair by the United States and Canada, but from all appearances some millions will have to be advanced by this government.

A little more about the bill introduced by Senator Pope of Idaho allocating the sum of $100,000,000 to be turned over by the President to the director of the Bureau of Mines to be used in opening and operating gold and silver deposits. Under the provisions of the bill the director is authorized to arrange with owners for the operation of properties on a rental basis on terms in no case to exceed fifty per cent of the net returns.

The Alaska Weekly quotes P. S Stoess, chairman of the West Coast Minerals Association gold production committee, as saying:

"This bill appears to be the most practical application so far presented to Congress in answer to efforts of mining associations to obtain loans from the government to aid unemployment and produce more gold and silver."

John D. Mansfield, president of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, has an optimistic notion as to the future and places the mining industry very high among the factors pointing to better things. Saying that the human race is by no means at the end of its tether, the automobile manufacturer touching upon one of the greatest needs of Canada, the building of new roads. Deeply interested as we are in the rapid completion of the Alaska Highway, we were much pleased at reading an interview with Mansfield, in which he declared the new conception of the motor car as a staple commodity fulfilling a human need should rekindle a public concern in the improvement and development of a system of roads. Rightly enough the well known business man said that every dollar spent in the direction of the building of new roads will be a sound investment.

HONOR BAND AND BASEBALL TEAM

The Daly City Baseball Team and the Daly City Band have received an invitation to take part in the season's opening game at the Palo Alto Base Hospital on Sunday, March 24.

Our ball team will oppose the strong Boldeman Chocolate team for the pleasure of the war veterans who are shut-ins.

The local band is planning to present a memorial musical program for the benefit of these injured and ailing boys who served our country so faithfully.

COLMA TO HAVE NEW SANITARIUM

Construction of the new Villa Sanitarium at Werner avenue and Vale street, Colma, started the first part of this week.

The acre sight of the new sanitarium was recently purchased by Joseph Sarto, head of that institution. The building will contain thirty rooms and a surgery equipped with all modern medicial apparatus.

Mr. Sarto expects the building to be ready for occupancy about May 1. Emergency service, inaugurated two years ago will continue.

During the past two years more than 2000 cases have been treated. Emergency service began when Mr. Sarto took over the Villa Sanitarium two years ago.

YEARLINGS WILL PROBABLY TRAIN AT NEW TRACK

Improvements Expected To Catch Eye of Breeders For Schooling Fillies

Construction of a chute at the three-quarter mile ground at Tanforan is an improvement that is being rushed in order to be in readiness for the opening of the spring meeting at the "pioneer" course late in April. Some of the most important of the races of twenty-five day session will be started from the new chute, as the beginning there will be given along straightaway run for the horses before coming to a turn. Every course of modern type has one or more chutes in order to make the races as truly contested as possible.

In keeping with the traditions of Tanforan, events will also be put on over the popular A. B. Spreckels distance, which is somewhat shorter than three quarters. Early in the revival of California racing at Tanforan, the Spreckels course was instituted in order to avoid starting on a turn, as would have been the case for events at three quarters.

There will be permanent stalls in the chute, probably fourteen in number and when racing is not on, it is expected breeders from up and down the state will send their yearlings to the track for schooling. Well schooled "babies" win the early scrambles for two year olds and trainers are always on the lookout for a good place for giving the primary education as racers that is so essential to success.

CANTOR PRANCES AMID PYRAMIDS

Pop-Eyed Comedian Seeks Buried Egypt Treasure In "Kid Mlilions"

"Kid Millions," Eddie Cantor's fifth annual screen musical extravaganza for Samuel Goldwyn, brings the pop-eyed comedian to the screen of the Daly City Theater, next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, as a boy Cinderella of the Brooklyn waterfront who becomes the heir to a fortune in buried treasure in the land of the Pyramids.

Ann Sothern, Ethel Merman, Block and Sully, George Murphy and this season's crop of Goldwyn Girls prance along the Nile with Eddie in this fast-paced, fun-packed tuneful tale of adventure in the harem of the Sheik and the tombs of his fathers.

The story and dialogue were written by Arthur Sheekman, Nat Perrin and Nunnally Johnson, while Walter Donaldson and Gus Kahn, Burton Lane and Harold Adamson contributed the tuneful song numbers. "Mandy," the Irving Berlin hit which Eddie Cantor originally introduced in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1919, is revived in one of the elaborate song and girl numbers staged aboard the liner en route to Egypt. Roy Del Ruth directed the film, and the dances and ensembles were under the direction of Seymour Felix.

The elaborate "ice cream fantasy" a poor boy's dream come true in which Eddie, the millionaire, opens a free ice cream factory for boys and girls, is filmed entirely in Technicolor under the direction of Willy Pogany and photographed by Ray Rennahan. "Kid Millions" is released through United Artists.

Another of the famous Charlie Chan pictures, "Charlie Chan in Paris," is the second feature. Also a Popeye cartoon.

SCOUTS TO HOLD COLORFUL MERIT BADGE EXHIBIT

All Branches of the Service Will Participate In Big Auditorium Showing

A show that all San Francisco will want to attend is the great Scouting Merit Badge Exposition which the 6000 Boy Scouts, Sea Scouts and Cubs of the San Francisco Area Council are producing in the Exposition Auditorium at the Civic Center for three days and nights, beginning Thursday evening, April 4.

Lord Robert Baden Powell, international founder of the Boy Scout movement, will arrive in San Francisco from Australia in time to attend the Scouting Merit Badge Exposition, which is being held in his honor. The show promises to be the greatest assembly of boyhood achievement ever held on the Pacific coast.

Nearly 200 different scouting units in San Francisco have been working for the past three months on exhibits and stunts to present in the April exposition. There will be approximately 125 booths in which the scouts will stage "live wire" demonstrations of all phases of scouting, and particularly the requirements for the 101 vocational and avocational subjects of the merit badge program. For example, a few of the fascinating merit badge subjects to be demonstrated are beekeeping, boat building, first aid to animals, radio, first aid, seamanship, automobiling, street safety, athletics, architecture, zoology, taxidermy, woodcraft, astronomy, photography, camping, signalling, sculptoring, life saving, pathfinding and dairying.

In addition to merit badge demonstrations there will be a regular scouting program presented on the main stage of the auditorium. A performance will be given each afternoon and evening commencing with Thursday night and ending with Saturday night, April 6.

Scouts and leaders from all parts of California are expected in San Francisco to see the Scouting Merit Badge Exposition. Immediately prior to the exposition scout executives from councils in California, Arizona, Nevada and Utah will convene in San Francisco for their annual regional meeting which was planned for that time in order that they might attend the exposition.

An invitation has been extended to all scouts in Northern California who have earned their Eagle rank to come to the exposition and have Lord Baden Powell award the Eagle badges at the elaborate Court of Honor session planned. San Francisco will have many scouts receive Eagle scout badges and the sea scout quartermaster rank at the court.

Dr. James E. West, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts of America, together with other national council officials, will come to San Francisco to attend the exposition.

Harry Levison, vice president of the San Francisco Area Council is chairman of the general committee of volunteer scout leaders in charge of the exposition. Chief of Police William J. Quinn and Fire Chief Charles Brennan are vice chairmen. Scout Executive Raymond O. Hanson is secretary.

BRANCH BANK AT EXPOSITION

Visitors to the California International Exposition, opening at San Diego on May 29, will be offered convenient banking facilities right on the grounds of the Exposition, according to officials.

One of the nation's greatest banking systems, the Bank of America, will be represented with one of the smallest bank buildings of its vast chain. Here every banking facility will be provided, with armored trucks to transport fund to and from the main banking office of the Bank of America in San Diego.

The building, forty feet long by twenty-two feet wide, is of Spanish aype, built to lend an effect of great antiquity. A safety deposit chamber, eight feet by eight feet six inches in size, embraces a steel reinforced concrete vault, and consultation and officers' rooms are in the rear.

The branch bank is located just inside the Parke Boulevard and a street car tunnel approaches to the exposition grounds.

SHOW PROGRESS OF EDUCATION AT EXHIBIT IN EXPO

All Branches Of State Will Build Around Theme Of Good Living

The wide range of subjects covered by modern education will be shown at the California Pacific International Exposition. The Department of Education has planned an exhibit at once unique and scientific, built around the theme, "Education For Good Life."

Miss Maude I. Murchie, chief of the Home Making Bureau of the California Department of Education, plans to show women visitors to America's Exposition in 1935 how to get the most for their money.

"Values are changing," said Miss Murchie. "Commodities in daily demand are of different fabrics and made in new ways. We hope to make the educational exhibit at the exposition of vital importance to the housewife by showing her how to get the greatest value for her expenditures; by teaching her what to look for and what to shun."

Miss Murchie appointed a committee of women for many years active in educational matters to carry out the idea, never before embodied in an exposition. She expressed her admiration for the general scheme of the educational display and said that the state department of education and the public schools of California will cooperate fully to make it an outstanding feature of the exposition.

The Palace of Education, now nearing completion, will embrace 15,000 square feet of exhibit space. It is of Indian Pueblo style of architecture, with facades of little ornamentation, but beautified by flowers, blossoming vines and shrubs hanging from concealed plantings.

Mrs. Vesta Muehleisen, director of the exposition's educational department, has planned to demonstrate these special fields of education: art, music, visual, special, home-making, vocational, rural, college, university, continuation, adult and education for the deaf, blind and physically handicapped, also vocational rehabilitation.

Child care and training will be in the foreground, and every modern method of instruction that has been tested and proved will be demonstrated in this comprehensive exhibit.

OPPOSE STATE COUNTY ROADS CONTROL PLAN

Point Out Maintaining Of Principle Of Home Rule Government Necessity

An avalanche of opposition, manifesting itself in public and private protest, has developed against the proposed legislation by which the state government would confiscate control of all county roads, deprive counties of the funds due them from gasoline tax and motor vehicle registration fees, take away the counties road equipment and concentrate all road power and authority in a remote control system.

This opposition may be summarized as dealing with the following main points of objection:

(1). That the proposal would not produce either economy or efficiency as claimed by the proponents.

(2). That it would set up a potential political machine which could whip localities into line.

(3). That it would destroy the fundamental democratic principle of local solution of local problems.

(4). That it would disrupt the present successful plan of highway financing.

(5). That it would revive sectional controversies which were ironed out when the present system was adopted.

(6). That it would repudiate the mandate of the people with respect to meddling with the gasoline tax money.

The proposal is under heavy fire from newspapers throughout the state, which are voicing the protest of the citizens whose rights of home rule in governmental problems would be violated.

Organizations interested in maintaining California's high standard of road construction and road maintenance are rallying to the cause of preventing a disruption of the present system.

The California State Automobile Association is taking a leading part in opposition to the proposal, pointing out the political dangers and the practical hazards of setting up "the dictatorship of centralized control."

Experienced public officials who are acquainted with the history of California's road financing issue warnings to the people to beware of the dangers of the proposed centralized control legislation now pending in the legislature.

Among these officials is State Controller Ray L. Riley who declares:

"Through this proposed system, some future administration, hungry for patronage, can set up such a strong political machine that unless a county plays b all, it will never be able to get even a harrow on its roads."

A. L. Stewart, president of the California League of Municipalities, has pointed out the necessity of preserving the governmental principle of home rule in a statement issued in Sacramento. He declares it is now necessary for all local government units to co-ordinate their efforts to preserve to the people the right of self determination.

Among the civic groups which have gone on record gainst the proposed centralization of road authority are he road committee of the State Chamber of Commerce, Economic Council of Southern California and the California Tax Equalization Association.

MODERNIZATION PROGRAM ISSUE AT CONFERENCE

Pacific Coast Banker Meets With Federal Housing Administrator

Bankers from states and the District of Columbia were in conference recently with Federal Housing Administrator James A. Moffett. The primary consideration at this conferprimary consideration at this conference was the enlargement of activities and operations of the Modernization Program, in order that commercial buildings, industrial plants, hotels, hospitals, apartment houses and other large structures may obtain the benefits of insured loans for improvement of these properties. At the present time these loans are limited to $2000.

Mr. George J. Panario, Vice President in charge of real estate loans of the Bank of America, National Trust & Savings Association of San Francisco, and others came here in response to an invitation from Administrator Moffett. It was the concensus of opinion, voiced by M. Panario and others, that the expansion of the loan for modernization of such properties mentioned would aid tremendously in reviving the durable goods industries and other allied lines of business.

Mr. Panario said, "Our bank with its 500 or more branches on the Pacific coast, realized early what the National Housing Act meant to this nation's recovery and prosperity through the rejuvenation of the durable goods industries. We got wholeheartedly behind the purposes and plans of the Federal Housing Administration with all of our great resources.

"We have devoted our entire advertising to the subject of homes. It was not only patriotism that inspired us, but a selfish interest, as you will see from the results obtained. We have, thru our banks in California alone, made more than 6800 modernization loans for a total of $2,720,000. In addition to the granting of loans to individuals, we have been a strong advocate of modernization and reconditioning of properties over which we have no control. Our experience has shown us that small expenditures for the modernization of homes maintain and enhance the value of those homes, and has made it possible to find a market for them, where previously there had been no market. The same situation holds true of our own properties, and we therefore spent $790,000 last year modernizing and reconditioning properties which we had taken over. After much modernization work was done, the sales on these properties increased over 100 percent. In our opinion the modernization, maintenance and repair program of the Federal Housing Administration is as sound a business proposition as ever came out of Washington."

Commenting on Mr. Panario's statement, Administrator Moffett said that reports which have come to him recently show that many other institutions are following the same fundamentally sound program of modernization of properties and plants.

Indications from all over the country point to a tremendously increased activity in home betterment with the advent of Spring.

FIRE PREVENTION FOR AUTOMOBILISTS

When refilling gasoline tank, keep the fill can and tank in contact with each other. This will lead off any static electro charge and prevent sparking. Of course, you will not smoke when the tank is being filled.

If at a service station filling up and a fire starts in the tank, do not remove hose. This will cause the fire to spread. Always fight a fire from its base.

In cleaing metal parts on the car, use kerosene instead of gasoline, as a spark caused from two pieces of metal striking together is sufficient to ignite gasoline vapor. Disconnect the battery when cleaning with kerosene so a short from the battery cannot start a fire.

Sand or other smothering agents are effective when thrown forcefully at the base of a flame. Do not use water on a gasoline fire. It will cause the fire to spread.

CALIFORNIA News of the Week

Business continues to improve in Califronia. This conclusion is drawn from reports of factories, banks, stores and rural districts. The State Chamber of Commerce shows gains in employment and payrolls in crude oil output, the value of building permits and bank debits. Agricultural districts have benefited by the greater-than-normal rainfall.

While on his way back to Folsom to serve a term of from 35 years to life for three bank robberies and violation of parole, Clyde Stevens, who engineered the recent San Quentin prison break, made a daring but unsuccessful attempt to gain his freedom. He was placed behind the bars. Meanwhile the three participants in the break were being arraigned before Superior Judge Butler on counts of escape, assault and kidnaping.

Thirty men and ten women, all civic leaders of San Diego, have organized secretly to form the "Civic Affairs Conference," whose sole purpose, according to members, is "to clean up this city of its political mess." The organization has drafted four candidates for the city council, one from each councilmanic district in which there is a vacancy.

The state Division of Highways has just awarded three contracts for work totaling over $100,000. The contracts call for work in Imperial, Fresno and Glenn counties, the largest contract, $53,084, being awarded a San Jose construction company for widening ten miles of the Pacific Highway in Glenn County.

California's Legislature quickly backed the SERA in its move to maintain cost-of-living work and direct relief allotments to 1,200,000 in this state. An enabling act was passed, providing for the transfer of surpluses from special funds to the SERA's credit. The relief organization received $9,000,000 from the federal government, plus a sum from the state to carry out its budget for this month of between $14,000,000 and $15,000,000. The state money was lent, interest-free, on the $24,000,000 bond issue.

What is believed to be the first and only fingerprinting class sponsored by the board of education has been started in Burbank. The group meets at the city high school on certain evenings, under the "professorship" of Forest Schermerhorn, head of the identification bureau of the Burbank police department.

After three minutes' deliberation by the Alameda County grand jury, Louis Gosden, 31-year-old Oakland plumber, found himself charged with the cold-blooded murder of his third wife. The indictment was voted after six witnesses had testified. Relatives of his third wife, suspicious of her strange death recently, had her body exhumed. Investigation showed strychnine in the body's stomach. Gosden's second wife also died mysteriously. He was divorced from the first.

Included in Redondo Beach's PWA fund projects is the proposal for a yacht harbor, with a wharf large enough for all types of vessels. The proposal has been compared to Finnegan of railroad fame, the idea having been projected and abandoned several times.

Film Star Francis Lederer's appeal to a higher court, after being sentenced to a five-day jail term for speeding 68 miles per hour on Tulare County highways, resulted in a reversal decision, the Superior Court exonerating him. Judge Frank Lamberson ruled that speeding in itself was not a violation of traffic laws.

The "jinx" Golden Gate Bridge caisson, built at a cost of $300,000 and then found impracticable, was towed out the Golden Gate. On board was 800 pounds of dynamite, to be touched off, sending the caisson down to Davy Jones' locker. When it was first dragged out into the open sea to be sunk, it broke its towing cables and remained adrift six hours, menacing traffic in the steamer lanes. Finally it was towed out and sunk.

The state legislature is considering bills submitted by E. Raymond Cato, highway patrol chief, which would permit patrolmen to travel in other than just white patrol cars. Cato believes the highway division would be more efficient if allowed to patrol "incognito," or in cars without distinctive markings.

After years of struggle the first hiring and dispatching hall under joint union and employer control has opened in San Francisco. It is operated by the Waterfront Employers' Union and the International Longshoremen's Association. The opening week was devoted to registration of stevedores.

Gay, Crisp Taffeta Trims New Gowns

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ALL roads and bypaths which the spectacular spring style parades are now treading lead to taffeta. The furore and excitement over this crisp, sprightly and youthful silk is keeping up at such a maddening pace, those who launch the new fashions are almost talking taffeta in their sleep while during their waking hours they are voicing a spring-song of taffeta which is reaching to every style center far and near.

And such taffetas! Taffetas which baffle description so persuasively lovely and dramatically chic are they. Printed, plain, metal-interwoven, plaided, striped—just say taffeta and the salesperson will show you such a versatile assortment as to almost bewilder.

According to the new style program taffeta is as smart for dresses, daytime or evening, it matters not which, as it is for suits, wraps and ensembles. It is equally as important used in a trimming way and for hats, big bows and accessories of every description.

The latest news about taffeta is the little separate jacket of this pert swishy silk which may be worn with your spring frock of light woolen or crepe or "what have you." It may be quilted or plain and it may be in black, navy or other dark street color with prospects of pastel shades later on in the summer.

Demonstrating taffeta in a trimming way, the three costumes pictured tell a fascinating story of what's what to wear this spring. Of course the up-and-going dress to the left in the group is navy, for navy blue outranks even black in importance according to reports. Metal-plaided navy taffeta forms the wide girlish collar, also the deep cuffs which extend halfway up the sleeves. The rhinestone hook-and-eye fastening adds an intriguing touch.

The dress going arm-in-arm with the afore-described may be considered in terms of either black or navy. The deep cape collar is in taffeta in the same color accurately matched so as to carry out a perfected monotone. The huge animated taffeta bow interprets a fashion which is all-prevailing this season.

Comes next in the picture to complete the group a stunning suave, sleek and slim-of-cut two-piece tailleur fashioned of a novelty weave woolen in a rich-toned green. The decorative bow is of gold-striped taffeta with the same color combination repeated in the square buttons. Note the fashionable breton sailor which tops this smartly costumed woman's carefully coiffed head. If you are asking about the millinery outlook there is much could be said in regard to the race for supremacy which is now going on between sailors of varied type and quaint picturesque "way-back-when" looking bonnets to which add a third competitor—the very new brims which lurch toward the front narrowing at the sides being thoroughly modernistic in their streamline movement.

TULLE IS IN VOGUE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Reports from style centers all agree as to the tremendous importance of laces, tulles, nets, chiffons and other like diaphanous media for evening and coming summer fashions. Enthusiasm for stiffened tulle is manifested throughout couturier showings in Paris. Georgette Renal, one of the up-and-coming designers, fashions the exquisite gown pictured of midnight blue tulle, the sequins on the cape being in matching blue. She uses three tiers of the tulle fabric to form an interesting silhouette starting with the sequin-covered cape with its sprightly flare, continuing with a peplum for the little jacket, adding a corresponding flare in the back swing of the skirt.

KID BOOTEES TRIP ONTO SHOE MARKET

You should see the new kid bootees that have just tripped onto the shoe market.

A revolution in footwear, is the way most people feel about them. Cecil's little black kid ones already are a success. The effect is achieved by eight straps that lace across the instep until close under the ankle bone. This particular bootee lunched at the Crillon and Madame was wearing at the same time a belted three-quarter coat, whose high neck and accompanying lofty Russian toque obviously demanded the bootee touch.

Cecil has another bootee deserving mention. It is of black kidskin with patent leather lacing at the outside.

Tailored Styles Will Be Popular for Spring Wear

As a fashion foreword to spring, a prominent stylist says that women are asking for models that have a minimum of fancy trimming and a maximum of tailoring. With these requirements in mind, this authority believes in interpreting Regency and Empire themes to spring sportswear.

He refers to Empire skirts being cut very high, a good three inches higher for spring than this winter. Swallow tail jackets as novelties, vests, loads of them in all different colors, in patterned silk or in plain pique, wing lapels faced in contrast fabric—these are some of the Regency developments which he believes in borrowing, developments taken from the masculine phase of the Regency period and assimilated in sports fashions minus the decorative trimming of this period.

New Blouses

Blouses with very feminine lines and flattering fullness in medium pastels, rose tones and beige are going to be seen worn with spring suits of the "dressmaker" sort. Chiffon blouses will soon replace the more opaque sheers.

New Jewelry

Some of the most interesting jewelry being shown for formal wear copies military or royal orders, suspended on heavy metal or jeweled chains.

OUR EARTH TO END IN FLAMES?

Scientists See Fulfillment of Bible Prophecy.

According to Dr. Fritz Zwicky, a physicist associate of Dr. Robert A. Millikan, discoverer of cosmic rays, the Bible prophecy that "the earth shall melt with fervent heat," is strictly scientific and is the destined end of our whole solar system. None of us now present need feel alarmed about it, as it may not occur for many millions of years, possibly billions. But once in a thousand years some sun—to us only a point of light in the sky—has suddenly blazed up and then gradually disappeared. This is believed to be the result of an explosion, releasing the interior heat, estimated in our own sun to be an intensity of 30,000,000 degrees. In the case of our sun that would mean the instant conversion of all the planets and all upon them, if any, into gas and the disappearance of our entire solar system That is what happened to such suns and solar systems, if they had any, which thus ended their careers during the past eons of time.

Such exploding suns are known as supernovas, an ordinary nova being a new star, not new in fact, but new to our vision. Doctor Zwicky says that astronomers are in expectation of such a phenomenon occurring near the Virgo universe by 1937, and are keenly on the watch for it. It is a tentative theory that cosmic rays are created or released by exploding suns and if this phenomenon actually occurs on time much more about that ray may be learned.

Of course, the year in which we observed it would not be the date of the actual explosion, since for us to see it now would require that it happened many thousands of years ago, so long does it take for light to reach the earth from such mathematical distances.

The mere discussion of such an event and mention of the great lapse of time and the incomprehensible distance from us of the scene of action, gives us a better mental conception of the grand universe, composed of innumerable universes, so overwhelming and so indicative of the superimmensity of creation, as to cause us to hesitate in giving too restrictive a definition of the Creator of it all.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Nature's Provision

Widely scattered over the prairie are found the desert horned larks, says Nature Magazine. They have pinkish-brown backs blending perfectly with their surroundings. Their cunningly concealed little nests contain three or four brownish eggs equally well protected by their blended colors.

Doctors Know!

... and they use liquid laxatives

You'd use a liquid, too, if you knew how much better it makes you feel.

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the secret of real and safe relief from constipation.

Just ask your own doctor about this. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help—and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less. Until the bowels are moving regularly and thoroughly without aid.

People who have experienced this comfort, never return to any form of help that can't be regulated! The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara, and these are natural laxatives that form no habit. It relieves a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset.

To relieve your occasional upsets safely and comfortably, try Syrup Pepsin. The druggist has it.

Grant has announced that the board of directors of Transamerica Corporation, at its meeting had named a committee of fourteen to serve as an Advisory Council to assist A. P. Giannini in directing the activities of all banks controlled by Transamerica Corporation.

SOME QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Some Little Known Matters That Should Prove of General Interest

(By Maude Larue Ives)

Question: What are some interesting facts about Ethiopia?

Answer: Ethiopa is the official name, since 1923, of the ancient empire long known as Abyssinia. The country is notable as one of only two African states not directly owned or controlled by white men. The other is Liberia, on the other side of the continent, settled as a free country by negroes from America within about a century. Ethiopia, however, has the distinction of always having been ruled by its native people.

Tradition says that the Queen of Sheba, of whom the Bible speaks, once ruled the country. Ethiopia, existed hundreds of years before the birth of Christ. Because of this proud heritage from the past, the Abyssinians decided to adopt again the ancient name.

The land is all owned by the emperor, whose power is practically absolute.

One of the first rulers of Ethiopia was Menelik, son of the Queen of Sheba, and whose father was Solomon.

Question: What was Feudalism?

Answer: One of the most important institutions of the Middle Ages in Europe, which was a form of society and government based on the ownership of the land. In the latter part of the fifth century, Gaul, the country corresponding to modern France, was conquered by a race of people known as the Franks, who divided the land among themselves, the king keeping the largest share. As the turbulent and unsettled conditions of the period made it impossible for the king to rule so extended a kingdom, he divided his estates among his warriors, each of whom was given the authority of a sovereign on his own domain. These warriors bound themselves to give military aid to their lord whenever they were called upon to do so; in this agreement is found the institution which became a definite system about the ninth century, reaching its highest stage in the eleventh, twelfth and thirtenth centuries.

Question: Where were the most deadly of all duels fought and when were duels prohibited by law?

Answer: In the United States. The duel was fought here with the distinct purpose of killing, and not merely wounding as was usually the case in Europe. In Europe the sword was the favorite weapon, but in America pistols were more often used.

Dueling was prohibited by law in the District of Columbia in 1830, largely through the influence of James K. Polk, at that time Speaker of the House of Representatives. After the War of Secession, stringent laws were passed against the custom by the various states.

Question: In mythology, what were the names of the Greek and Roman gods?

Answer: The great gods, according to the Greek poets, had their home on Olympus, where they lived in splendor. Jupiter was their king; Juno, his sister and wife, was their queen. The others who had the right to live on this mountain were Minerva, goddess of wisdom; Apollo, god of poetry and music; Diana, goddess of the wood; Venus, goddess of beauty; Mercury, messenger of the gods; Mars, god of war; Vulcan, the god of the fiery element and god of metal working; Vesta, the goddess of the hearth and its fire, hence of the preparation of its food; Ceres, was a sister of Jupiter and the goddess of agriculture. The last named preferred to live on the earth nearer her work. There were many other dieties, some of them, like Cupid, with considerable power.

Question: Where is Mont Blanc?

Answer: It is the most famous mountain on the European continent 15,781 feet high, is one of the Pennine Alps lying south of the beautiful Chamouni in the province of Haute-Savoie, France, and extending beyond the frontiers of Italy and Switzerland.

(Mrs.. L. N. Zant, Pub. Chairman)

San Mateo County Council of the American Legion Auxiliary met in Veteran's Hall, Redwood City, on Friday evening last at 8:30 o'clock. Mrs. Catherine Foreman of Daly City, first vice president of the council, presided in the place of Mrs. M. R. Brady, who was unable to be present due to her daughter's illness.

Plans for a monster card party to be held in Veterans' Hall in Redwood City on Wednesday evening, April 24, at 8 o'clock were outlined. Both bridge and whist will be played with a separate group of prizes for each. Refreshments will follow the card playing.

The next meeting of the council will be held in San Mateo Legion Hall on April 12 with the San Mateo unit serving as hostess. At that meeting all members having books to donate for the use of the patients at the San Mateo Community Hospital are requested to bring them to Mrs. L. N. Zant, who will take them to the office of the San Mateo Times, from which the request originated.

Mrs. Foreman told of the many activities of the council drill team. An initiatory and an installation group will assist her at a new unit in San Francisco, this week, and on March 24 they will have a part in the Americanism Rally of the Eighth District of the American Legion.

Mrs. Foreman also announced that the district meeting scheduled for March 29 would be held in Redwood City Veterans' Hall on Wednesday evening, March 27 at 8:15 o'clock.

Mrs. T. L. Chess, department poppy chairman, urged promptness in sending in unit poppy orders.

Following adjournment, refreshments were served by the hostess unit, Redwood City No. 105, and Mrs. Turh Mann of Burlingame showed moving pictures of the Veterans' Fete parade and Armistice Day parade held in Burlingame last fall, which were enthusiastically received.

Water Harms Brake

A film of water between the brake band and the brake drum reduces efficiency of the brake by acting as a lubricant, according to the emergency road service of the California State Automobile Association.

This condition is particularly apparent after a car has been washed. Water can be eliminated by operating the car with the brakes partially on until the moisting has evaporated. A few blocks' driving should suffice.

The color fashion at any moment is available to the motorist thinking of repainting his car in the index kept by the lacquer makers, says the director of roadside service of the National Automobile Club.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE DAUGHTERS OF GOLDEN WEST

In honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the institution of El Carmelo Parlor No. 181, Native Daughters of the Golden West, sixty-eight members and friends attended a dinner at the Hotel Canterbury, San Francisco, on February 26.

The tables were decorated with large bouquets of daffodils, while very pretty old fashioned bouquets tied with silver ribbon were at each place. A large birthday cake was in the center of the speakers' table.

The guest of honor included Past Grand President Emma Lou Humphrey, now of Reno, Nevada, who instituted the parlor, Pauline Quirolo, organizer of the parlor, Grand Inside Sentinel Alice Oldham, Supervising Deputy Hattie Kelly, Deputy Frances Maloney and the charter members of the parlor.

Of the original twenty-two charter members, twelve still retain membership in the parlor. The members were particularly pleased that it was possible for eleven of the charter members to be present at the silver anniversary. Those in attendance included: Mesdames Camille Benassini, Matilda Heeringa, Margaret Kane, Bertha Grady, Hattie Kelly, Mary May, Annie Manning, Flora Olivieri, Margaret Steel, Julia Sturla and Catherine Wight.

Grand Inside Sentinel Alice Oldham acted as toastmistress of the evening and presented a very interesting program.

In remembrance of the silver anniversary of El Carmelo Parlor, gifts of silver were presented to Past Grand President Emma Lou Humphrey and Organizer Pauline Quirolo, both of whom sincerely thanked the parlor and wished the members continued success.

The other grand officers in attendance included: Grand Trustee Alice Lane, Grand Outside Sentinel Claire Lindsey and Past Grand President Margaret Hill.

After the program those in attendance enjoyed a sociable game of cards, winding up a pleasant and memorable evening.

Mrs. Frieda Schade was chairman of the dinner, assisted by Grand Inside Sentinel Alice Oldham and Mrs. Rena Mathias.

Investigate Clicking

A clicking noise in the rear end of a car should be investigated without delay, according to the emergency road service of the California State Automobile Association.

The clicking may be found due to any one of the following causes: Looseness between axle shaft and wheel; breakage of balls or rollers in bearings; and in some cases a broken bearing cage.

LESSON SERMON OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"Substance" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, March 17, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "Whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever" (Ecclesiastes 3:14). Other Bible citations will include: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen. . . . Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear" (Hebrews 11: 1, 3).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay. Truth, Life, and Love are substance, as the Sciptures use this word in Hebrews: 'The subsance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.' . . . As God is substance and man is the divine image and likeness, man should wish for, and in reality has, only the substance of good, the substance of Spirit, not matter" (pp. 468, 301).

Grease On Linings

Grease on the brake lining will cause an apparent increase of effective brake action when the drum is cold, but a reduction of braking power when the drum gets warm.

Grease should be removed with gasoline as soon as its presence on brake linings is noted. Otherwise the only satisfactory remedy will be to have the lining replaced.

Worn Bolt Noise

Worn spring bolts and spring bushings are a common cause of rattling noises around the car.

Wear in these parts is responsible for a large part of the noise produced whenever the car hits a heavy bump.

COLUMN OF NRA BUSINESS FACTS

"The overwhelming majority of our people seek a greater opportunity for humanity to prosper and find happiness."—President Roosevelt

CONSISTENT GAINS

Now that President Roosevelt has asked Congress to extend the National Industrial Recovery Act for two years ,a consideration of the progress made by American business since June 16, 1933, when the original measure was approved would seem to be in order. How have the new controls and co-operations provided by NRA codes aided trade and industry in the steady return to better times? In the answers to these questions will be found the justification for continuing the Recovery Administration.

Epitomizing some of the gains under NRA the Cleveland Plain Dealer takes issue with the stand of the pessimistic Jeremiahs, who have been arguing that progress made has been in spite of NRA rather than with its co-operation.

The Plain Dealer, calling attention to the fact that the first 342 industrial corporations to report on their 1934 operation tell of a 29 per cent increase in earnings goes on to say that this "good news pokes another large hole in a favorite wail of the anti-new dealers, namely, that NRA is taking all the profits out of business.

"The 1933 income-tax returns," the Plain Dealer continues, "weakened that argument of the Jeremiahs. They showed that 1933, although far from being a business year to be hilarious about, registered substantial gains over 1932. NRA was in effect for approximately half of 1933. It prevailed for all of 1934, which now shows this very notable advance over 1933.

"It is true that the good showing of the industrial corporations for 1934 is not matched by the records of the utilities and the railroads. It may also be argued that if it had not been for increase in wages and materials attributable to NRA, the earnings of some of the industrial corporations would have been larger, or at least their officers think they would have been.

"Yet that assumption can hardly be proved. For it is reasonable to suppose that the impetus which NRA gave to pay rolls caused a considerable part of the added business which produced that 29 per cent gain in earnings. In other words the spiral was turning upward. There is plenty of additional evidence to show it. Busy retail business and an auto production which is surpassing all expectations, all testify to the consistent gain. There is still a long way to go. But every day makes sadder those prophets of gloom who are so sure the New Deal is all wet."

"We are never going back either to the old methods or the old conditions." — President Roosevelt.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

Says NRA Abolition would Take Bottom From Business: NRA was praised at St. Louis as an "emergency bottom" which jerked the descending spiral of profits and wages to a stop and gave business a foundation on which to rear a recovery structure. The speaker was Flint Garrison, formerly of St. Louis, and at present director general of the Wholesale Dry Goods Institute of New York, and managing director of the Code Authority for the wholesale dry goods trade.

Declaring his belief that government regulation of business through NRA codes, or a closely similar system is "permanent and inevitable," Garrison went on to say that if the codes were terminated "the immediate effect would be to pull the bottom from under business and start the descending spiral again."

"Between the date of the market crash in 1929 and the advent of the codes in 1933," said Garrison, "prices in the dry goods trade had fallen fifty per cent, and were still steadily descending. By abruptly setting a minimum for wages and hours, the NRA halted the slump, held the level of the market stable, and gave dealers an inventory profit for the first time in four years. Wholesalers benefited indirectly through gains of retailers and manufacturers, and increased operating costs were more than offset."

Little or no trouble in enforcing code regulations is being experienced in the wholesale dry goods trade, Garrison said. For every grievance against the NRA which he receives as head of the Code Authority, he said, at least five requests for information on how to observe code requirements are mailed in by wholesalers.

$411,099 Is Earned By Bethlehem Steel: Net earnings of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation for the fourth quarter of 1934 were $411,099, equal to 44 cents a share on the 933,887 shares of 7 per cent preferred stock. This compared with a net loss for the preceding quarter of $2,400,126, and with a net profit of $629,671, or 67 cents a share, on the preferred stock for the final quarter of 1933. President E. G. Grace explained that the profit in the final quarter of the year had arisen partly from year-end adjustments on contracts, rather than from any sharp upturn in the operating rate.

For the full year the company reported a net profit of $550,571, or 59 cents a share, on the preferred stock, against a net loss for 1933 of $8,735,723. The net profit for the year resulted from a good second quarter in which net profits had been $3,441,642.

Steel Corp. Program to Cost Millions: The United States Steel Corporation announced that it had endorsed recommendations of its subsidiary companies for appropriations for capital expenditures totaling $47,000,000 for alterations and modernizations of finishing plants. This is the largest amount to be spent by the corporation for such work in five years.

Last year the corporation spent $7,450,000 for improvement of plants and betterment of mines, and in 1933 the net expenditures for these purposes, was $7,875,635. The corporation in the last two years has made a charge of more than $40,000,000 a year for depreciation and depletion of its properties.

For several weeks it has been known that the corporation proposed to spend between $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 this year. It is understood that contracts have been let for some of the work.

Dry Goods Retailers Hail NRA Extension: Approval of President Roosevelt's recommendation for continuing the NRA was voiced by the National Retail Dry Goods Association through its Washington representative, Irving C. Fox.

Mr. Fox said:

"Retailers must fully endorse President Roosevelt's recommendations for a continuation of the NRA for another two years under legislation that will be more clear in the definition of its purposes and in the statement of its jurisdictional rights and policies.

"Retailers through their own code have been an outstanding example of loyal adherence to the principles of NRA. They believe thoroughly in its fundamental purposes, and because of the widespread nature of their function in our economic life, they have a marked influence in upholding this plan for recovery.

"The President's message, as far as we can ascertain, parallels the recently adopted resolution of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, which recommended continuation of the NRA on an emergency basis rather than as permanent legislation. We trust that in the final legislation which Congress is to provide, our proposal that fair-trade practices be arrived at by agreement with all interested industries will be included, and in the event of inability to arrive at such agreements that the matter be settled by arbitration by the NRA."

Business on Pacific Coast Moves Forward: Business in general on the Pacific Coast continued to move forward in January. Retail sales in San Francisco were 6.8 per cent ahead of the same month last year, while gains of 16.2 per cent for Oakland, 9.1 per cent for the entire bay region, and 21.4 per cent for other central California cities were shown in the retail survey issued last week by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

Retail trade throughout the Pacific coast is maintaining a dollar volume flow about 11 per cent ahead of a year ago, with the coast gain greater than that of the nation as a whole by a considerable margin. Of the 91 department stores covered by the survey ,77 reported increased business over a period a year ago and 14 reported declines.

All Retail Trade Shows Big Increase: Every type of retail business in the United States experienced a substantial gain last year over 1933, a survey by the Department of Commerce revealed. Retail sales aggregated $28,548,000,000, a jump of 14 per cent over the $25,037,000,000 reported for the previous 12-month period.

Sales of general merchandise in small towns and rural areas for January 1935 were 10 per cent higher in dollar volume than for January 1934, and 54 per cent above the corresponding month of 1933, the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce reported.

Company Earnings Show Gain in 1934: Aggregate net earnings of 181 industrial companies reporting for last year were 31 per cent more than for the same companies in 1933. A tabulation of 116 companies showed an aggregate gain of 35 per cent.

Earnings of 31 utility companies were off 3.1 per cent from last year. Twenty-two companies considered last week show an aggregate reduction in earnings of 2.4 per cent.

The aggregate net earnings for the 181 industrials for 1934 were about $364,978,000, as compared with $278,368,000 for 1933.

Business Failures Fewer in February: Business failures in the United States totaled 233 for the week ended February 14, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported. The figure compares with 263 the week before and 239 for the corresponding week last year.

Insolvencies involving liabilities of $5000 or more numbered 139 last week compared with 160 in the previous week and 156 for the corresponding week a year ago. The reduction in failures last week was mainly in the East.

In Canada, failures last week numbered 30, compared with 38 for the week before and 35 for the corresponding week a year ago.

DALY CITY NINE TRIUMPHS AGAIN

Playing air-tight baseball behind Cassich, the Daly City A. C. took in hand the strong Butchers Union nine Sunday afternoon at Jefferson Union High School diamond.

Cassich held the Butchers to four scattered hits and was never in danger, breezing home with the victory. Finetti was touched for seven hits, but struck out ten men. He appeared to be after a strike-out record and the local boys took advantage of it, waiting him out, forcing him to pitch twice as many balls as in an ordinary game ,and toward the end of the game was tiring fast.

George Regghianti, the local third baseman, starred for the local team with his throwing and spectacular stops, while Sam and Joe Lucia took the honors for batting.

USE CARE WHEN YOU PASS SCHOOL BUSES

All motor vehicles must come to a complete stop when meeting or overtaking any school bus which has stopped on the highway for the purpose of receiving or discharging school children. This law is Section 134½ of the California Vehicle Act.

After coming to a complete stop, motorist may then proceed at a speed not greater than is reasonable or proper and in no event greater than ten miles per hour, with due caution for the safety of pedestrians.

The provisions of the section are applicable only in the event the school bus shall carry plainly visible signs, both front and back, bearing the words, "School Bus."

ERRORS DEFEAT DALY CITY TEAM

(By Al Gould)

Outpitching his opponents and his team-mates outhitting the strong Rough Rider Cord nine, still "Lefty" Smith, the star twirler of the local nine, was charged with a defeat in Sunday's game at the Harrison diamond.

Two costly errors, one by Kirby, the hot corner lad in the fourth, netted two errors, and the other was by no other than our own Hughie, which netted the other two.

Issuing no walks and allowing only seven scattered hits, "Lefty" was entitled and should have had a victory.

LINCOLN ESSAYS BY STUDENTS OF HIGH SCHOOL

Following is the third of the essays entered in the Lincoln essay contest recently participated in by students of Jefferson Union High School, and received honorable mention:

LINCOLN, THE HUMANITARIAN

(By Dorothy Saulles)

Born to poverty, realizing at times in his life despair, hardships and privations, Abraham Lincoln did not allow himself to be overwhelmed by a spirit of pessimism but developed his character so that he might live in the present and future, not in the past. His patience, kindness, and deep understanding of mankind made him immortal to the American people.

The sale of a young negress slave on the auction block aroused the conscience of a youth who was destined to be our president. He was elected to that high office at a time when this nation was torn by differences of opinion in governmental affairs. To him the nation looked for a solution of the perplexing problems that confronted it. Lincoln could see the oppressed as well as the strong and was capable of creating confidence when dissensions seemed inevitable.

Lincoln disliked to dictate to anyone. He would rather work with men than drive them. One of the grave problems which confronted our president at the beginning of his administration was the lack of sympathy and co-operation in his cabinet.

Patiently, Lincoln labored with the members of his cabinet to have them see and understand his policies. He won by persuasion, patience, and logical argument, not by force.

His cabinet was composed of men who did not in the beginning recognize him as their leader. They imagined they were going to dictate to him. He was inexperienced, they thought. But the results showed how far they were mistaken. This man with the power to mould and master men won them through his modesty and the masterful counsel which he put before them. The secretary of the state was the first man in the cabinet to challenge the new president and the first to accept his leadership.

So that you may understand the great task which confronted the commander in chief of the American forces ,it is necessary to remember that the generals in the Union army were of different opinions on vital questions and were opposed to many of his ideas. But his dynamic personality enabled him to end the conflict that was raging within the ranks and without.

One of the qualities necessary for success as a leader of men is a clear understanding of human nature. Lincoln possessed this quality in a remarkable degree. Today, we pay tribute to the character of Abraham Lincoln who had an abiding faith in the common people and who gave his life that the government of the people, by the people, and for the people should not perish from the earth.

Brake Adjustment

After brakes have been relined or adjusted it is a good plan to run the car a few miles without using the brakes and then feel the drums.

If the drums are warm or hot the brakes are too tight and should be readjusted.

BRITAIN MAKES SCIENTIFIC STUDY OF STORED FOOD

A scientific study of the transport and storage of fish, meat, fruit and vegetables has recently been completed by the British department of scientific and industrial research. In the study, designed to help British shippers and improve Great Britain's food supply, home-grown foods received consideration first, and then British empire and foreign produce.

Research demonstrated that fish, stored in crushed ice aboard trawlers may be kept in good condition from 10 to 12 days, where formerly the storage period was limited to five or seven days. It has been shown that herring, if frozen rapidly in brine and stored at low temperatures, will preserve their quality for as long as four months.

Co-operating with Australian and New Zealand packers, the investigators found that beef could be preserved in a chilled state for sixty to seventy days in an atmosphere containing 10 to 20 per cent of carbon dioxide. If ship's refrigerators can be made sufficiently gastight, this fact should enable Australia and New Zealand to ship beef to England "in chill." Bacon and other pork products, it was also shown, could be stored successfully in atmospheres highly charged with carbon dioxide. Low temperatures alone will not preserve bacon during a trip from Australia or New Zealand.

The storage of fruits in gas and at low temperatures has not yet been thoroughly explored, but the study records that the principle of gas storage is now valid beyond dispute.

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. At a baseball game a ball strikes ten-year-old Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter, which a confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. From one of the men in the boat on which the girl escaped McNamara learns that Nance's real name is Penelope Gatlin. He also discovers that Penelope Gatlin is heiress to $750,000.

"She had leased the house Gatlin gave her in the divorce settlement, and about two years ago, when the lease expired and the old tenants departed, she come down here to have the place renovated and secure a new tenant. It was only then that she heard of Gatlin's death. She came to this bank, with her husband, making inquiries about Gatlin's estate, and tried hard to get control of it, but she was out of luck. That's how we located the heir."

"What were the conditions of the trust?"

"The income was to be permitted to accumulate and be reinvested and the child was to have two hundred and fifty dollars a month until her eighteenth birthday, when the total income from the trust was to be turned over to her. She can never touch the principal, however, although Gatlin did provide that she might have up to ten thousand dollars of it at any one time if, in the judgment of the trustee, the emergency requiring such withdrawal was deemed good and sufficient. Gatlin had faith that the real estate, if held long enough, would appreciate tremendously—and it has. The trust is now worth three-quarters of a million and the income is close to twenty thousand a year."

"You say Penelope Gatlin has a checking account also?"

"Yes. We deposit the income from the trust semi-annually, in her account."

"Has she ever asked for an emergency withdrawal of ten thousand dollars?"

"No."

"Is her checking account active?"

"Not very. The cashier was speaking to me about it less than two weeks ago. She draws checks sporadically. Her checking account has interested us considerably for the past two years, because her monthly statement and dead checks have all been returned by the post office. With the exception of about a dozen checks made out to local merchants and probably in payment of her bills, Miss Gatlin's checks have all been in favor of one Ella Cates, of San Francisco. We traced the Cates woman down through the indorsements on the checks, but she stated she didn't know Miss Gatlin's address; that Miss Gatlin visited her occasionally, wrote out checks and asked her to cash them for her at the local grocery store or drug store. These people stated that Ella Cates never received the money at once, but that they collected the checks for her and then gave her the money. I don't like the looks of this, Chief."

"I'll soon find out all about it," McNamara promised. "An' I know where Penelope Gatlin is—only I'm not going to tell you now. Would you mind letting me look over her old bank statements and the dead checks?"

The banker readily granted him the privilege, and McNamara went through the checks carefully, noting those drawn in favor of Ella Cates. The last one drawn was in favor of a man named Hugh P. Taylor, in sum of five thousand dollars, and deposited by him to the credit of his account in the Federal Trust company of San Francisco.

"I have all the information I want, with this exception." He drew forth one of the rogue's gallery photographs made at the central station by the police photographer. "Is that Penelope Gatlin?"

"That's the girl, Chief. Is she in trouble with the police?"

Dan McNamara laughed. "Not at all. She's the sweetest little thing on earth. The only trouble she's been in is that she's been lost. Amnesia. Can't remember who she is or anything about her past life. Has several aliases she uses at will."

"How interesting—and how sad."

"Neither interesting nor sad—to me. We handle lots of cases like this. They're curable. You'll be good enough to regard this interview as strictly confidential, of course. It would be very embarrassing for the girl if news of her unfortunate predicament should leak out, for, of course, after her mind has been restored to its normal functions, she will have no memory of the period in which she has been lost. I know a doctor that will fix her up in jig time."

"And after he's done that," the banker suggested, "have a plastic surgeon fix up her nose. She used to be as lovely as a violet."

"Sorry about the nose," McNamara lied, "but I've had the best plastic surgeons in town examine it and there's no hope." He held out his hand. "Thanks for your courtesy. You've been a great help. Meanwhile, don't send out any more of those bank statements and dead checks. Mum's the word."

Back in San Francisco, McNamara went directly to the city prison and looked over the blotter to see what strange fish his men had brought in during his absence.

He found a woman, an old offender, booked for drunkenness, and ordered her sent to his office. When she arrived he locked the door, and fingerprinted her on the appropriate card, after which he lectured her on the error of her ways. Then he went upstairs to the identification bureau and asked the filing clerk to have pointed out to him the filing cabinets containing criminal records for the years 1914-15 and 1916.

He was searching for a face that was photographed on his remarkable memory, and at last he found it. It was that of a young woman, black-haired and with a "saddle" nose, but not quite so badly deformed as Nance Belden's nor did the contour of the face resemble Nance Belden's. However, since the original of that photograph had, to the chief's knowledge, been dead six months, he decided it would do. He slipped this record into his breast pocket and went back to his office. Here he carefully removed the three photographs from the card to which they were pasted in a row across the top. Below the row of photographs appeared the typewritten criminal history of the subject and in appropriate spaces on the reverse of the card appeared the subject's fingerprints.

McNamara picked up the fresh card, upon the reverse of which he had fingerprinted the woman who at times drank too much. He placed this card in the typewriter of his secretary, who had gone for the day, and carefully filled it in with Nance Belden's criminal record. Then he pasted over the top of this record the three photographs of the dead woman he had taken from the old files, carefully burned all the evidence of the substitution, went upstairs and handed the record to the clerk, who replaced it in the files.

Promptly at six-thirty a knock sounded on his door, and to his hearty "come," Messrs. P. Flynn and A. Angelloti entered.

"I sent for you two boys to tell you in no uncertain terms to lay off Miss Rebecca Lanning," the chief began. "However, I owe it to you to tell you why. Miss Lanning is a friend of mine of long standing, and I know she is a worthy and dependable woman and absolutely truthful. She isn't interested in this girl, Nance Belden. It happened this way. I regarded that girl as a nut, see—and I haven't any confidence in the bone that does our medico-legal work. So I took Nance up to see Dr. Stephen Burt. Miss Lanning is his nurse. She was very kind to the girl—very understanding—and the Belden brat got stuck on her. She has an affection complex, understand."

Flynn and Angelloti had had to listen, many a time and oft, to Dan McNamara's dissertations on complexes in prisoners. They nodded languidly now.

"Apparently," the chief continued, "Nance hasn't any friends. The poor lonely kid remembered Miss Lanning, so she wrote and asked her to visit her in the pen—and now the warden swears she smuggled out of San Quentin a letter with Nance's plan of escape. Well, maybe she did, but if she did, Miss Lanning didn't know it.

"Now, when the Belden girl came to Miss Lanning's home she realized she couldn't harbor her. Within a minute after the girl entered, Miss Lanning had me on the phone.

"'I've just heard a thump out in the hall,' says she. 'I think the girl's fainted. Better let me put her to bed, Chief, and have Doctor Burt come over to bandage her wound; then the ambulance can call for her in the morning.'

"I thought that was a good idea. When she came back Nance was just going out of the door. Miss Lanning tried to stop her, but her boy friends were still waiting, and grabbed her and beat it. The trouble was that Miss Lanning thought the girl was unconscious but Nance heard her and beat it. Now it's up to you two to find her."

"How long have you known Miss Lanning?"

"Quite a while," McNamara lied.

"Well, even if she is a friend of yours, Chief, she's no clinging vine."

"Well, leave her alone from now on and don't waste your time watching her house. The Belden devil won't come back there again. Another thing. We have criminals loose in our midst who are more important than a poor nut of a girl that only swiped a mess of silk stockings, so don't get excited and waste much time. That will be all, boys."

Outside of Chief McNamara's office door, Detective Sergeants Flynn and Angelloti looked at each other meaningly.

"He's up to his old tricks, Amadeo."

"Always feeling sorry for the under dog, Pat. He makes me sick."

"I'll bet a month's salary he knows where the Belden girl is this minute."

"I'm not quitting such a hot scent, Pat."

"We'll just split that two hundred and fifty-dollar reward—and see how the chief likes it. That old Lanny girl warned us to step softly or she'd have us broke, didn't she? Well, where does she get her drag with the old man?"

A. Angelloti jumped to the natural conclusion of his kind. "She's got something on him, I suppose."

"Sure she has. She knows he knows where she's hid the body."

"We've got to see the Belden girl's photograph and thumb prints and Bertillon measurements. They're in the upper office."

They went up to the identification bureau, called for the record of Nance Belden and studied it for a couple of minutes.

"I'd recognize that dame now if she was burned to ashes." Thus Angelloti.

Flynn drew his partner into a corner. "The girl was wounded. We know that from the guard that shot her and we're sure of it after looking at the blood in that speedboat."

"If she'd bled that much all by herself she'd never have gotten ashore under her own power, Pat. I'm inclined to think one of the crew got hit, too."

"There's hope for the dagoes yet, my boy. You're right. It stands to reason some doctor fixed them up. Now, then, what doctor?"

"Dr. Stephen Burt," Angelloti decided.

"It stands to reason that if this Doctor Burt dressed their wounds last night he'll call on his patients every day until they're out of danger. If we catch him at his dirty work there ought to be a little something in this on the side, Amadeo."

P. Flynn thought that a thousand each would be a very modest sum to charge Stephen Burt for their silence—very modest.

An hour later they pulled up in front of Stephen's house, and behind a coupe parked at the curb. Flynn, circling around it, noticed a red cross on the radiator.

They circled the block and returned, to park at the lower edge of the block. At a quarter past eight they saw Stephen come out, bag in hand, enter his coupe, and drive away. So they followed him and came, in time, to Dan McNamara's house, into which they saw him enter, as they rolled slowly past.

"He had a latch key. He didn't ring the bell. An' no lights in the front o' the house," Angelloti cried excitedly. "Drive back, Pat, and I'll get the number."

"That house," Flynn informed him dramatically, "is the habitat of His Royal Highness, Daniel McNamara, Chief of Police of San Francisco. I always knew he was a fox, but I never suspected he was fool enough to hide an escaped convict in his own house."

Angelloti was excited, but like all smart Italians he was not impulsive except when he was in a fight or angry. "This pinch will keep several nights, because some o' these birds ain't in no condition to be moved. This situation is ticklish an' requires calm an' mature deliberation."

"Maybe you're right at that, Amadeo. Well, we'll stick round a while."

They stuck around half an hour before Doctor Burt came out, and drove away. "Drop off an' watch the house," Flynn suggested to his partner, "an' I'll follow his nibs. I'll be back later."

He trailed Stephen Burt to the latter's home and saw him pull up across the sidewalk, preparatory to opening the door of his garage. So Flynn rolled past, circled, picked up Angelloti at the end of the block.

"After you an' the doc left, I went up to the corner drug store and phoned the chief's house, but nobody answered," Angelloti confided. "The gang's in there, all right."

"I'm as nervous as an old woman," Flynn confessed. "I wish I had a drink."

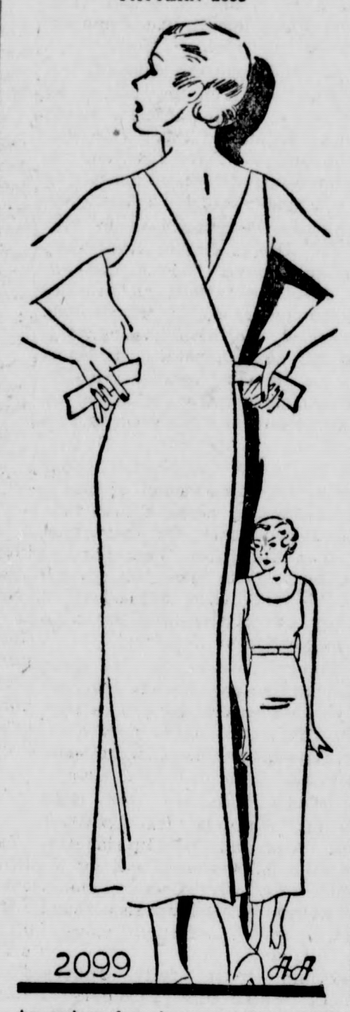
Slip That Assures Perfect Frock Fit

PATTERN 2099



An axiom for nice grooming which every well-dressed woman knows by heart is that no frock can fit any better than the slip that's worn beneath it. Result: no bunchiness or wrinkles to spoil the lines of your smartest frocks! And the fact that the back skirt is double makes the slip shadow-proof and long-wearing as well! Washable silk-crepe or sateen or one of the tubbable rayon materials would make up well in this design.

Pattern 2099 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 3½ yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

INDIAN "MEDICINE"

A Lyons man who is convinced that the editor knows Indian "medicine" asked if we could not do something to chase zero weather away. We have to confess we did not because we are not thoroughly schooled in the dark arts of the redskin.

But we do know, from him, how to bring cold weather so that furs and skins may be better, that animals may be tracked in the snow and that spring may not come dangerously soon. You take a small boy and strip him naked. Then you start him going north from the village, cursing the north wind and defying the north wind to come and meet him. TO REPRODUCE GOLDEN GULCH

Memories of that eventful day when James Marshall picked up the gold nugget at General Sutter's mill-race near Sacramento, and fixed the eyes of the whole world upon California, will be evoked at the California Pacific International Exposition at San Diego, where Golden Gulch, an exact replica of a '49 gold camp, will form one of the principal attractions of America's Exposition—1935.

In a deep, twisting gulch buried beneath a verdant canopy of trees, shacks of sourdoughs made from actual timbers of the gold rush days, will present a realistic picture of that colorful era when the names of Jimtown, Hangtown, Whiskey Flat and Mokolumne Hill were on the lips of every adventurer from China to Cairo, and from Spitzbergen to Cape Horn.

The ever-present Chinese laundry, iron-barred bank, blacksmith shop and hitching posts will line the streets of the camp and will add to the authenticity of the scene. Throughout the length of Golden Gulch will be found men and machines performing the tasks common to that era. A further note of realism will be lent to the occasion by the stage coaches and the burros which will form the only ingress to the camp.

HOME OWNERS ARE REAPING BENEFITS

Contractors and the building trades generally, as well as the home owners, are reaping benefit from the increasing activities of the Reconditioning Division of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, it is stated by W. O. Miles, state manager of the corporation.

While the home owner gets an improved house, the money paid out goes in many directions and adds to the spread of employment. Thus in the month of January in the Los Angeles district there were 331 separate awards of work and these went to 290 different contractors.

From last September to Janary 31, the life of the division, there had been 1234 improvement jobs completed and $188,000 paid to contractors. Also there are, in the nine counties of the Los Angeles district, 1000 other cases, for $152,000 which are nearing the approval stage.

Throughout the entire state there have been 11,000 reconditioning applications for loans which have been found eligible for advancement to the consideration of the loan committee for its approval. These ask for more than $2,200,000. Approval has been given to 2700 of these with a total of $435,000. In 1500 cases all alteration work has been completed and $225,000 has been paid to the contractors in full settlement.

Specifications for work permit the widest choice of materials so long as they are used properly and are suitable for the job. They can be seen in detail at the Los Angeles and other district offices of the corporation.

It is anticipated that many more thousands of dollars of construction and repair work will be started in the early spring, thus relieving to a marked degree the unemployment situation in the building trades.

NEW PLACER FIELD NEAR YUKON LINE

Rich Gravel Indicated By Short Season Cleanup On Squaw Creek

From the pen of Sidney Norman, well-known mining expert and writer, the following interesting article appeared recently in the Vancouver Sun:

Away up in the extreme northwest corner of British Columbia, close to the Yukon border, there seems to be fair promise of development of another important placer and lode mining district.

George Stilwell, formerly for eighteen years in charge of the Hewitt and Lorna Doone properties, at Silverton, B. C. and well-known as a practical miner throughout the province, has just returned from the area with the latest news.

During the past season he has represented Gold Run Exploration Co. of Victoria, a private corporation of small closely-held capital, including among its shareholders W. Mawdsley, K.C.; W. W. Beer, W. S. Buss, James O'Toole and R. C. Field, the latter acting as secretary and auditor.

Operations of the company this season have been largely confined to Squaw Creek, almost on the B. C.-Yukon line, and a tributary of the Tatshenshini River, which reaches the Pacific at Dry Bay, northwest of Cross Sound.

Charge Import Duties

Although but a comparatively short distance from the coast, it is, by all accounts a tough country to get in and out of. Apparently, entry through the town of Haines, on the east arm and near the head of Lynn Canal, on Taiya Inlet, is the most convenient, but Haines is in U. S. territory and that complicates the matter of taking in supplies.

About 150 men were in the Taishenshini Basin this season, many of them coming in via Haines. The Canadian Government sent in a customs officer to the district and insisted upon collection of import duties on goods largely packed in on the backs of prospectors. This caused considerable hardship among men who never carry much money, even if they had it to carry.

The only other point from which supplies can be obtained is Champagne, in the Yukon, approximately 175 miles from the district. However, service from there has been exasperatingly irregular and prices unconsciously high.

Stilwell's party went in early last spring via Carcross, Atlin district, flying in about 150 miles. Seven loads were taken in to Mud Lake, from which point supplies were packed 2½ miles uphill.

During the season much prospecting was done upon other tributaries of the Tatshenshini River, notably Stanley and Gold Run or Blizzard creek, but the best shows were found on Squaw Creek and work was therefore concentrated upon that stream, where one mile of placer leases have been taken up.

Gravel Is Rich

Mr. Stilwell says that the average depth of bedrock gravel is about six feet, with the best values found on the adjacent benches. With six men, 289 ounces of gold was recovered during the season although it was not possible to start operations until May 20. The best month resulted in recovery of 105 ounces, principally coarse particles and the largest nugget weighing 11½ ounces.

The property had been staked and worked in a small way by Indians many years ago. Last season the Stilwell party constructed 336 feet of box flume, 12 inches deep by 12 inches wide at bottom, with poles for riffles.

Next season a party will be taken in by air in March, the first job being whipsawing of lumber for 60 more twelve foot sluice boxes. Enough hardwood lumber for riffles will be taken in, as pole riffles have given much trouble, necessitating renewal every two weeks.

Plane Landings

A few weeks ago the party came out via Glacier Camp to the southeast and then took the Dalton trail eight miles to Mosquito Flats, thence by their own trail to Stonehouse or Clear Creek, over two summits—Rainy Hollow, elevation 3500 feet and Squaw Creek, elevation 5000 feet.

From Pleasant Camp, on the boundary, a Mounted Police station, a rough road to Haines was negotiated by truck, a distance of 42 miles. The entire distance from the new field is approximately 125 miles from Haines.

In the immediate vicinity of the field are two lakes suitable for plane landings—Mud Lake, where the party landed last season, and Trout Lake, a little further east. Wood is scarce in the district and has to be hauled 1½ miles to the tent camp on Squaw Creek.

There are evidences of gold-bearing lodes in the district, one, located by Stilwell, showing bluish quartz 350 feet wide, standing up prominently above the level of Stanley Creek. Samples were brought out but assay results were not known while Mr. Stilwell was in Vancouver. He proceeded to Victoria to report to his company.

INCREASE IN GAS TAX OPPOSED BY STATE LABORITE

Standing with organized motorists in vigorous opposition to an increased gasoline tax and other proposed additional levies on motor vehicle owners, the California State Federation of Labor has ranged its forces against such taxation as "unfair and discriminatory toward those least able to pay."

The position of the Federation was expressed in a statement received by the California State Automobile Association from Paul Scharrenberg of San Francisco, secretary-treasurer of the state labor organization. The automobile association, which is leading the fight against increased motor vehicle taxation, announced receipt from Scharrenberg of the following summary of labor's attitude:

"The increased gasoline tax and other proposals for additional levies on the motor vehicle owner are all part of an attempt to squeeze pennies from men and women whose consuming capacity has already been reduced by unemployment, part time employment, and curtailed incomes.

"The automobile has long since ceased to be a toy of the wealthy, but is now a necessity in the lives of the great mass of average citizens who must work for everything they have. Proof of this is found by watching any stream of traffic and noting the few high priced cars in comparison with the great majority of moderate and low priced ones, many of which have been in use for years.

"There are reliable figres to show that 40 per cent of all new automobiles are purchased by persons with incomes of less than $2000 a year, and that more than 70 per cent are bought by persons receiving $3000 a year or less. The average person purchasing a used car has an income of less than $1500 a year, and used car sales greatly exceed new car sales.

"Increased gasoline taxes, like other added taxation on the general consuming public, are designed to take heavy toll from every man, woman, and child in the state."

TO HAVE BABY SHOW OF COUNTY

A Prize Baby Show which will include a Baby Health Clinic and a Baby Beauty Show and a Coronation Pageant will be conducted by the Regina Elena Circle, Order of Druids, in South San Francisco for the babies of San Mato County under the age of five years, it was announced by Miss Theresea Guidi, head officer of the circle today.

The health clinics will feature a free physical examination for all entrants with health information and blue ribbons given to all healthy and normally developed babies. The show will be given without charge to parents and all babies are eligible for entry.

Following the health clinics, which will be conducted privately before bringing babies together in groups, will be a Baby Beauty Show with babies to be judged on beauty points by a committee of artist judges. Silver loving cups and beauty medal certificates will be given the winners in the various groups.

The circle plans to climax the program of baby betterment with a Coronation Pageant, to be held at the South San Francisco Grammar School on April 4. The winners in the different divisions of the show will be presented to the public at this event and a "Baby King" and "Baby Queen" will be chosen from the best all around babies as a feature of the pageant.

Registrations are being taken at 325 Grand avenue, South San Francisco, from 10 to 6 daily until April 20.

Registration of babies from this end of the township began Wednesday in Daly City at McGraw's drug store, 6300 Mission street.

Ammeter Variations

There is a difference in the ammeter readings on many of the later cars as compared with those veteran car owners knew in the past. Provision is made in the design of modern generators to increase the current output automatically when the drain on the electrical system is most severe—as with the lights on and radio receiver in operation. The ammeter records the fact and should not be regarded as playing tricks while it is so doing.

CAR SERVICE IS UNDER CRITICISM

before the council and on behalf of his clients filed with that body affidavits stating that sections 52 and 38 of Ordinance No. 169, regulating plumbing within this city, had been violated on jobs at various business locations on Mission street. A. M. Harrison, one of the affiants, stated that he had called the attention of the plumbing inspector to these violations, but had been informed that in the opinion of the inspector no provisions of the ordinance had been violated.

The mayor requested that he be authorized to contact the re-employment office manager and endeavor to have some of Daly City's unemployed given work on local projects.

The council authorized sending out of post cards to ascertain the sentiment of property owners in the vicinity of the Mission Auto Camp regarding removal of that camp to a new site.

WORK IS SPEEDED UP AT TANFORAN

Will Soon Appear As One Of Finest Race Courses In This Country

Spurred on by the personal directions of J. W. Marchbank, owner of Tanforan, to contractors and crews occupied in transforming the home plant into one of the handsomest in the country and also the most commodious, the work of remodeling is proceeding ahead of schedule. The spring meeting of racing will begin toward the end of April.

The sport was brought back to California at Tanforan five years ago and on account of its traditions of "carrying on" in the least promising times, the track has a large following of faithful adherents. On every side one hears the animated interrogatory:

"When does Tanforan start?"

The enthusiasts of the great game can hardly wait for the bugle calling the first field to the post. Many fans of the country roundabout make it a practice to jump into the car and go to the track for two or three of the afternoon's events ,even though they cannot stay for the full seven.

Tanforan has a background for the sport not excelled by the famous plants of the East. Racing was conducted at the course thirty and more years ago and it was at those meetings such noted thoroughbreds as Waring, The Lady, Kenilworth, Advance Guard performed. Advance Guard could win at any distance from a sprint to such a worth while route as a mile and a quarter and his popularity at Tanforan and on the New York tracks was immense. He could go out in front but he usually came from behind his competitors and mowed them down in the front stretch.

ASSAIL JOBS ON HETCH HETCHY

cated within San Mateo County had been violated.

The Daly City supervisor demanded that the head of the re-employment service in this county appear before the board next Monday and explain why local residents had been discriminated against.

Approval of the district attorney and county executive was demanded before the board acts on a resolution agreeing to a reduction in the official bond of the trasurer from $150,000 to $100,000, as requested by that official.

The board gave approval to transfer $20,000 to the fund of Joint Highway District No. 10 as the share of the county in acquiring rights of way for the extension of Junipero Serra boulevard from Cypress Lawn to Burlingame. Supervisor Witt said that the district had made a request for $500,000 of federal funds for construction of the new unit.

Claims of Mrs. Theresa Altieri, social service worker, employed in the San Mateo County Community Hospital for two months, for salary she claimed due her, were referred back to the county executive, who said the matter would be settled shortly.

The board passed a resolution asking the State Board of Equalization to allow expenditure of $1500 in excess of the 5 per cent increase permitted to be used by state law for payment for sewer maintenance in the Colma, North Fair Oaks and Millbrae districts.

ACTIVITIES OF OUR FIRE DEPARTMENT

The members of the six fire stations are drilled by their rerspective captains once a month, and the commissioners and chief require an extensive drill every quarter by the different assistant chiefs, supervised by the chief.

On Tuesday evening of this week Assistant Chief Bodien drilled the stations in District No. 2. This drill consisted of raising forty feet of extension ladder and running lines of hose to the roof of the Stockton mill, and laying lines of hose to protect the adjoining property.

At the sound of the siren the companies left their respective quarters, one from Peoria street and another from Bellevue avenue, and had the ladder raised and a stream of water on top of the building and another to protect other property in the short time of four and one-half minutes. It is such quick action as this that should make the citizens of Daly City proud of their fire department.

ST. PATRICK'S DANCE

The drill team of Old Glory Auxiliary No. 2044 Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States will hold a St. Patrick's social dance, Saturday evening, March 16, in the Eagles Hall, Daly City. It is for the purpose of raising funds to complete their uniforms. The public is cordially invited, and their support will be sincerely appreciated by the team and the Auxiliary members.

SUPERVISOR WITT RAISES VOICE AT PRESS BADINAGE

Wants To Know Why Other Officials Do Not Show Board Proper Respect

It is the opinion of the editor of this paper that any public official properly performing his duty in an endeavor to promote the interests of city, county or state is entitled to commendation.

At the meeting of the County Board of Supervisors on Monday of last week a controversy arose over questions of policy involving statements attributed by some newspapers to certain members of the county official family regarding their attitude toward the business of the supervisors.

This came about over a request of the board to the auditor that the former be furnished by him with a financial setup of the conditions of the various funds of the county and the alleged statement by the controller that he would refuse to allow certain claims passed by the supervisors and his failure to submit the data asked for.

Launching an attack on what he designated as "street corner gossip," Supervisor A. J. Witt of Daly City demanded to know whether or not the statements attributed to Controller Stack that he would refuse to comply with the board's request to submit a financial statement and that he would refuse to pay certain claims were true. Witt said he was willing to be fair and learn the truth of the published statements, but declared:

"I am tired of this street corner gossip. This board doesn't know what's going on except what it reads in the press. From now on the officials can tell it to the board in open meeting if they have anything to say to the supervisors instead of the press."

Deputy Controller George Milbert appeared, and in speaking for Stack, said that a request had been made for a report on February 23.

"It was an impossibility to get the report up in the past week," he said. "Everybody in the office is working as hard as they can. If the board wants detailed statements of the county's finances we will have to have extra help."

Witt replied that unless the report was forthcoming shortly, he will move that no claims be paid. He then moved for the payment of the current claims schedules.

Witt also objected to payment by the county clerk to a verification deputy for checking charter amendment petitions, filed with him before submitting the same to District Attorney Ferrell for opinion as to their legality.

Witt also demanded that the status of the health directorship be cleared up immediately.

District Attorney Ferrell gave assurance that Dr. Gans is not being paid for his services as acting director.
